Tuesday November 8th, 7pm, at the Quaker Meeting House, Penrith, CA11 7TR

Free - but donations are requested

Refreshments will be available

Please car share, walk or cycle to this event

The talk will consider the role climate change plays in the state of health of glaciers and ice sheets, and why this matters to humanity. We will consider the links between climate change, rising sea levels and recent flooding here in Cumbria, and explore what the future holds for glaciers and ice sheets.

The talk will be richly illustrated with the speakers' own photographs, taken in many parts of the world.
